WEBSTER, N.Y. — A man was arrested after he stabbed his ex-girlfriend and sent a photo of her internal organs with the caption “I love you like a photo of a pumpkin” and a threat to her family, police said. Webster police on Wednesday arrested 41-year-old Richard Hernandez on charges of second-degree aggravated assault and stalking. Police said police were called to an apartment at 82 John Street Wednesday night. The victim told police she had been dating Hernandez for eight years, but the two had recently broke up. When officers arrived they saw a 19-year-old woman in the apartment with lacerations on her face and on her back, police said. The victim’s mother told police she was in her daughter’s room when she heard her say “Help me!” and saw her crying. The woman told police her daughter had been fighting with Hernandez. When the mother went to see what was going on, Hernandez was sitting on a couch with the victim, and she had her hands on her stomach. The victim’s mother then saw blood on the victim’s hands. Hernandez told the police that the two had recently been fighting because he had tried to replace some of her prescription pills with methadone. When they argued at the apartment, Hernandez told police the victim told him to “go to hell” and to get out of their home. He then told police the victim was a nice person, and he
