Two Notes

Integrate the power of a note taking software for your desktop. Create text notes with ease using a context menu. Choose from categories for those notes. Add notes to the menu to enjoy them whenever you want. Themes can be applied to notes and the entire interface. Notes remain on the top side of the screen, with a sticky behavior. Stick to the top of the screen to view notes as long as you want. Notes reveal info on mouseover. Easy customization of notes using a context menu. OmegaT 2.01 Alpha 2 is available for all supported platforms. Major new features in this version include: * New language support (Danish, Persian, Swedish, Slovak, and more); * New styles for Tamil, French, and many other languages; * New, possibly incomplete, support for Persian and many other languages in the IME; * New text-to-speech voice synthesizer and grammars for Korean, Thai, Japanese, and many other languages; * New dictionary look-ups, defaults, and options; * Improvements in the algorithms used to find translations; * New plug-ins, including a new automatic dictionary generator; * A new filtering system based on XPath is used to search for and replace text in specific sub-parts of strings; * Full spell check is now available in all frames (for English only, however); * A new fuzzy finder matches text in the translated frame; * Two new views have been added: the "Results" view, which shows the results of a particular search or translation project; and the "Protected Frames" view, which shows all frames that are currently protected from translation; * A new help facility is included in each version of OmegaT, with tutorials, FAQ, and other support resources; * The User Interface has been improved and optimized, among other things; * Various bugs have been fixed, including crashes and the notorious "totally lost data" bug; * A long list of other improvements, fixes and changes is detailed in the Change Log, where you can also see the way forward with the roadmap for OmegaT 2.0. OmegaT is available free of charge under the terms of GNU General Public License. To try OmegaT, download it here:

Category: Calendar & Notebook Developer: alexanderreals It seems Two Notes is an open source android application. You can download it from their Website on Google Play. Jabber Share images and files using Jabber! Jabber is a text based instant messaging service developed by Jabber, Inc. Jabber was released in 1997. Jabber runs over TCP/IP, and provides both text and voice services to users. The name Jabber comes from an early slogan for the Jabber service. Jabber service is based on XMPP, which is an XML-based text-based instant messaging application. XMPP is short for XML-based Streaming Protocol. The Jabber service supports the same features as the XMPP messaging protocol. The following table shows the features supported by the Jabber service: Feature Name Jabber feature Description Support for lightweight chat, presence, message, multicast, room, notifications, instant message, audio, video, webrtc, jabber-http, zap, franz, stanza, bitbee Host, a URL, or a domain name for the Jabber service API Jabber ID (JID) for either an online or local username (e.g. user@domain.com). Multi-User Chat Users have their own ID, and can send instant messages to many other users. Direct Chat Users can use direct channels and speak directly to each other rather than via a multi-user chat. Audio and Video Audio and Video can be sent to one another, can be recorded, and/or can be sent by a webcam or other source of video. Full XMPP Features Jabber supports the full XMPP messaging protocol, with the exception of iq (Internet Presence) and conference (for the Multi-User Chat). Full Jingle Features Jabber supports the Jingle messaging protocol, with the exception of iq (Internet Presence) and conference (for the Multi-User Chat). News Feed Articles of the day updated by Jabber can be read here: An RSS feed for the daily articles is available at This can also be viewed by clicking the link: Folder Folders can be set up to automatically send messages or files to other users. These can also be used to store personal information
